

WORLD-WIDE
SEARCH IS ONFor Dr. Harvey Crippen, a
London Alchemist

HIS WIFE'S BODY FOUND

He Had Told a Neighbor That His Wife
Went Abroad and Died There.
Crippen Was Formerly a Philadelphia Dentist.

London, July 14.—Scotland Yard authorities are searching the whole world to locate Dr. Harvey Crippen, an alchemist, who disappeared Saturday, just previous to the discovery of the body of a woman who was supposed to be his wife, and who was formerly Bellefleur, a noted singer. The body was buried in the cellar of their home in Islington, a suburb of this city.

Crippen is said to have fled with another woman whom he had been living with after his wife disappeared. Before disappearing Crippen told a neighbor that his wife had gone abroad and had died there. The mystery is one of the greatest in English police circles in years.

Dr. Crippen was once a Philadelphia dentist but later was English representative for Dr. Maynard and a big American drug house.

To-day two coffins were taken from the Crippen home, indicating that there is another corpse. It is feared that it will prove to be a murder body. The police are barring everyone from the premises and are refusing information. Warrants are out for a woman, whose name is Clara Leche, a stenographer. She is said to be the woman with whom Crippen fled. The warrants charge her with being the accomplice.

CHURCH PROVES TOO SMALL.

Unitarians Hold Chief Sessions in Hotel

Portsmouth, N. H., July 14.—The historic little Unitarian church on Star Island, in the Isles of Shoals, would hold but a handful of the 300 or more Unitarians here yesterday in attendance upon the Unitarian Summer Meetings association sessions, and in consequence the principal meetings were held in the Oceanic hotel.

At the morning session the subject was "The Principles of Growth in Religion" and the discussion of the subject was led by the Rev. Sidney H. Shaw of Concord, N. H.

Last night an address was delivered by Prof. Charles Zeislin of Boston on "The Religion of the Common Life." Over 200 Unitarian clergymen are gathered here during the week's meetings, coming from various parts of New England, the middle Atlantic and central states.

See Him Three Times and Then Calls

Dorothy told her mother that she had seen a shabby looking man loitering in the vestibule. Fifteen minutes later, the girl went to the roof of the house and saw the man trying to pry open the scuttle on 371 West End avenue. An hour later she met the man again on the top floor of her own house and asked him what he was doing. He pushed her aside and ran downstairs.

Dorothy told her mother, and they called for help.

FOUND NOT GUILTY.

Henry John Slattery Who Was Indicted
On Federal Charge.

Rochester, N. Y., July 14.—Henry John Slattery, indicted on a charge of violating the election law at the congressional election in April, when James S. Haves, Democrat, defeated George W. Abdrige, Republican state committeeman, was found not guilty at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after the jury had been out less than an hour.

The indictment was based on the evidence of John Tuck that he was offered $1 for his vote on election day by a man whom he did not know. The only evidence connecting Slattery with the transaction was that the initials "J. S." were on a slip of paper alleged to have been given to Tuck to be cashed at a saloon. Slattery presented evidence tending to establish an alibi.

There are three other indictments of a similar character against Slattery, but it is probable that they will not be tried before fall.

THINKS LANGFORD
COULD LICK JOHNSONWilliam Gibson, Well-Known Fight Authority, Says Black Man Doesn'tDare Fight Langford—Will Put Up $20,000 Bet.

New York, July 14.—"I don't believe you could pay Johnson to fight Langford," said William Gibson of the Fairmount Athletic club to-day. "When Johnson was beat broke a year ago, I offered him $5,000 for six rounds with Langford. He turned me down cold. Langford was present in a sporting resort when Langford fought Johnson there. Langford made a dash for the champion. Johnson hit the swinging door and took it on the run down street, going like a scalded hen. I think Langford can lick Johnson to a frazzle and am willing to go in on a $20,000 side bet, if Johnson demands. If they ever meet, I'll mortgage my home to get the bet down on the Boston rat 'babe.' Gibson is a well-known fight authority and not given to hot air.

The owner of the motor boat, Emmanuel J. Grenier, jumped into the water in an endeavor to save one or both of the young people, but they had disappeared beneath the surface before he could reach them.

MORE WATER POWER

Considered by White River Junction
Board of Trade.

White River Junction, July 14.—The July meeting of the board of trade was largely attended. Several new members were admitted. Thanks were voted to all for assistance at the recent banquet. A discussion of the Shanon water power and its possible benefits to Hartford ensued. It was the unanimous opinion that the junction needed the power, and a committee was appointed to take the matter up with the company with a view to encourage them to bring their power into the village. It appears that the minimum power available for distribution at White River Junction would be about 375-horse power, which would be about 375-horse power, which manufacturing industries of the place, both old and new. ## POOR BEGINNING

For League Baseball at Burlington Yesterday Afternoon.

Burlington, July 14.—The Rutland team walked all over the bunch of ball players styling themselves at the Burlington team yesterday afternoon at Athletic park, the final score being 1-0. A good sized crowd turned out to see the game, but it was so listless and so carelessly played that only a few remained to the finish. Neither of the Burlington twiflers had anything, while Powers, the Rutland man, although never called on to exert very much, held Burlington safe throughout. Both teams ran at will on the bases and both fielded poorly. P. Donovan, the Burlington short stop, contributed a feature when he hit T. Donovan on the head with the ball in attempting to throw him out at third.

BODY FOUND ON TRACK.

Daniel Livingstone Was Killed Near White River Junction.

White River Junction, July 14.—Daniel Livingstone, an employee at the Otis-quebec Woollen mill in North Hartland, was caught on the Shirley crossing about a mile below this place Tuesday night and terribly mangled. Found without a cent, almost his last act in life had been to take a tramp to a lunch cart and start him on his way rejoicing.

Livingstone was without known relatives or close acquaintances in these parts although he had been here more or less for years, working at night one time in a stabling affray, for which he served time. Since his release he has lived a peaceful life so far as known.

After leaving the lunch cart about 9:00 p. m. he evidently started for North Hartland and either fell asleep on the track where he was struck or was caught on the crossing by the night pros. The accident was not discovered until yesterday morning.

Overdose.

Y., another near Boston and a brother in the state of Washington. The man's hat, overcoat and a bundle of soiled clothing, which were carried through the train Tuesday night, were brought back here yesterday. Insurance papers in the pockets of the coat showed a clean recommendation of habits and character, and his cousin, Mr. Bigelow, said he had never known that the young man was addicted to the drug habit.

MOVE TO END CROSSING.

Central Vermont, on Board of Order, Orders Out Tenants at Brattleboro.

Brattleboro, July 14.—The Central Vermont railroad intends to abolish Bridget street crossing as ordered by the public service commission was shown Tuesday when formal notice was made upon tenants of the company who will be obliged to move if the plans are carried out.

The Swift Beef company was notified that it would be obliged to vacate the land it occupies under a leasehold by Oct. 15. It is believed there is little reason to think the Swift company would move to Bellows Falls, as some people fear. The Swift people are not inclined to believe that either they or the Twin State Gas and Electric company will be obliged to move. A demand upon the gas company to move its plant is considered likely to result in extended litigation which would give the railroad company a long delay.

to Mind It Much.

Winooski, July 14.—Sergeant Thomas of Troop D, 10th cavalry, was knocked from a trolley car at the Porter Screen switch last evening and quite badly bruised. Thomas stood on the running-board of an eastbound car, and it was thought that a suit case in a passing westbound car struck him. He was thrown to the ground and bumped along the entire length of the car. He made light of his injuries, although rendered partially unconscious, but was taken to a nearby house and later to the fort by road. He was resting comfortably last evening and no serious results are anticipated.

DEMOCRATIC
NOMINEESCharles D. Watson, Governor;
Rev. J. B. Reardon, Lieut. Gov.

NAMED AT ST. ALBANS

Harland B. Howe Was Slated for Second Place, but He Eliminated Himself.
Platform Says Republicans
Are Coming Over.

For Governor

CHARLES D. WATSON, St. Albans

For Lieutenant-governor

REV. J. B. REARDON, Springfield

For Secretary of State

C. L. McMAHON, Stowe

For State Treasurer

J. W. THURSTON, Island Pond

For State Auditor

F. S. PLATT, Brattleboro

For Attorney General

H. C. SHURTLEFF, Montpelier

St. Albans, July 14.—The Vermont Democrats went through their state convention in jig time to-day, nominating Charles D. Watson of St. Albans for governor; Rev. John B. Reardon, a Universalist minister of Springfield for lieutenant-governor; C. L. McMahon of Stowe for secretary of state; John W. Thurston of Island Pond for state treasurer; F. S. Platt of Brattleboro for state auditor; H. C. Shurtleff of Montpelier for attorney general. Adjournment was taken for dinner, after which the district conventions were called to order.

The state convention was called to order in the city hall late this forenoon by Emory S. Harris of Bennington. H. E. Bullard of Hardwick was chosen as chairman. The nominations were made by acclamation; the ticket having been practically agreed upon before the convention. The district conventions were unpopular in the convention. Charles D. Watson, a St. Albans lawyer, was the leading figure for the governorship from the start, and when he was placed before the convention by George G. Story of St. Albans he was nominated enthusiastically.

Prior to the convention, there had been some differences over the candidates for lieutenant-governor. Harland B. Howe of St. Johnsbury, Rev. J. B. Reardon of Springfield and George N. Tilden of Barre were the names most talked about, but Mr. Howe eliminated himself from the discussion, and the choice finally settled on Rev. Mr. Reardon. The other nominations were soon made.

When Mr. Watson was called before the convention, he spoke in favor of purity of the primaries and deplored the use of money. He said further: "It has seemed to me that there is a fundamental weakness in the platform of the two great parties upon Vermont's needs. In other words, the Republican party has grown courageous enough to climb up and look over the ramparts of its hitherto great political majorities to see and copy and appropriate nearly all the good Democratic doctrines of recent birth and growth. I rejoice with you to note the honest courage of Hon. Joseph A. DeLoer, who recently announced so many of our principles as those now being accepted by the Republican party and only fell into the mistake of crediting their inception to the Populists by the common error of a prejudiced memory."

Charles D. Watson.

Charles Douglas Watson was born in St. Albans, July 29, 1860, the son of Edward T. and Fanny M. (Greene) Watson, and was graduated at the St. Johnsbury academy in 1880. He was a student in the university of Vermont for three years and was graduated from the Boston university law school in 1886, with the degree of LL. B. He has held many responsible offices, being principal trial justice of St. Albans from 1886 to 1899, auditor of Franklin county since 1896, city attorney in 1899 and member of the Vermont House of Representatives in 1908. He was in-law partnership with S. W. Flynn from 1892 to 1908, since which time he has been alone. He is clerk and director of the St. Albans Plumbing and Heating company, and was a member of the Vermont National Guard from 1890 to 1902, retiring as first lieutenant. He is also a member of the Vermont Bar association, a Mason and a member of the Knights of Pythias. In religious views he is a Universalist.

The platform, as adopted to-day, commends the Payne-Aldrich tariff; condemns Cannon and Canning; favors income tax amendment; demands election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; would reform tax legislation; seeks repeal of the present census law and the substitution of a direct primary law; wants publication of campaign expenses; favors employers' liability law; wants the yearly expenditure of "reasonably sum" for good roads; not for a few, but for all, and opposes bond issue for same.

Further, the platform commends the local option principle in the liquor question, but condemns the appointment of commissioners by assistant judges; it wants enactment of laws relating fire insurance companies and demands valued insurance; it favors conservation of natural resources and such legislation as will carry out Democratic ideas concerning the same. The platform declares that state expenses are too large and it demands the abolishing of some of the commissions.

It commends the legislature of 1908 for inefficiency, profligacy and salary graft, and finally it approves the proposed constitutional amendments.

The new state committee was elected as follows:—

Addison county, J. H. Donnelly of Vergennes, to succeed A. C. Calhoun of Middlebury.

Bennington, E. S. Harris of Bennington.

Caledonia, A. H. Gleason of St. Johnsbury.

Chittenden, John R. Kelley of Burlington.

Essex, J. W. Thurston of Island Pond.

Franklin, J. J. Thompson of St. Albans.

Grand Isle, Justin S. Beardsley of Albany Springs.

Lamoille, C. L. Gates of Morrisville.

Orleans, O. C. Miller of Newport.

Orange, M. C. Knight of Newbury.

Rutland, D. F. Carmody of Fair Haven.

Washington, Phil S. Howes of Montpelier.

Windham, James B. Byrne of Bellows Falls.

Windsor, John Kellier of Bethel.

The convention adjourned at about one o'clock.

TO EXAMINE
DRUG STORESState Board of Pharmacy to Take Action

FEARING LAW VIOLATIONS

A Systematic Examination Will Be Made
Throughout the State, Following the Disclosure in Burlington.At a meeting of the state board of pharmacy held in Montpelier Tuesday and yesterday, the board decided to make an inspection of every store in the state which handles drugs and medicines, for the purpose of ascertaining if the requirements of the law are being complied with. This action on the part of the board was brought about, and its necessity made apparent, by the recent inspection made of the drug stores in Burlington.

Such an inspection as contemplated by the board has never been made before in Vermont, and, according to the board, if the conditions are the same all over the state as they found them in Burlington, the board hopes to accomplish much good by this inspection.

A class of six candidates took the examinations for registration, during the recent meeting of the state board.

OFFICE THIEF AT WORK.

Broke into Wells Lamson Granite Company's Office.

The office of the Wells Lamson Granite company in the C. W. Averill block was broken into last night and ten dollars taken from the safe, which had been left unlocked. Entrance to the office was gained by prying open the door into the office at the head of the entrance stairs to the block. The imprint of the point of a screw-driver can be plainly seen in the door casement, where the screw-driver had been driven in and the door sprung back enough so the lock slipped out.

It has been the custom to leave the safe unlocked, though the door was closed, and the combination turned part way around, but not enough to set the bolts. It would seem that the thief had some knowledge of combination locks, as the safe could not be opened without turning the combination lock, and if it had been turned the other way, the safe would have locked. The tin box in which the money was kept in the safe was taken with the cash.

The office of E. L. Smith & Co., another quarry company, is on the opposite side of the hall from the Wells Lamson office, and an attempt was made to force open the rear door to this office, but it is not thought that it was successful, as there was no evidence of anyone having been in the office.

The other break was reported to the police at 1 o'clock this afternoon. It was not discovered that the office had been entered until nearly noon, as the box from the safe was not missed. The door of the safe had been shut by the thief, and he had closed the door to the office when he went out.

CARVER ONLY CANDIDATE.

State's Attorney Gates Decides Not to Run for the Office Again.

J. Ward Carver, at present the city attorney of Barre, is the only Republican candidate for state's attorney of Washington county; the announcement having been made by State's Attorney Gates for another term. I have carefully considered the same and have decided not to run. For seven years I have been a prosecuting officer, the last four years serving as state's attorney of Washington county, and during that time I have endeavored to administer the laws without fear or favor, taking special interest in securing a "square deal" for the unfortunate fellow without friends or money.

"I desire to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all my friends in this city and county for their very loyal interest in my welfare.

"I wish further to say that Mr. Carver, Barre's chosen candidate, is eminently fitted for the office and if nominated and elected, will serve the people well."

WILLEY-CLARK.

Marriage of Former Barre People at Waltham, Mass.

Cards were received in this city to-day announcing the marriage at Waltham, Mass., Tuesday, July 12, of Miss Jennie Celeste Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Clark of Waltham, to Frank Allen Willey, formerly advertising solicitor for the Barre Times and who recently resigned to go to San Jose, California, to accept a similar position. The bride has been a teacher of drawing in the public schools of Barre during the past two years, coming here from Proctor, where she taught following her graduation from the Massachusetts Normal Art school in Boston. Mr. Willey is a graduate of Pembroke academy in Pembroke, N. H., and he came to Barre three years ago. Both have made many friends in this city
